LOG

FROM THE BRIDGE * * *

JUNE, 1974

Summer vacations are around the corner for many of the BLYC youngsters. We are expecting to see more children on the island than we have during the winter months. It should be stressed again, as it has been in the past, that it is the parents' responsibility to watch over the safety and behavior of their children. We have a rule in effect which spells out that life preservers must be worn by pre-teen children unless permission was granted to them by the Junior Training Officer. They must prove to him to be good swimmers and can handle themselves in a manner becoming the son or daughter of a Club member. Furthermore, it may be worthwhile to review some of the by-laws of our Club which were written in 1948 and amended in 1967. Knowing our rules and regulations might save you some embarrassment.

House, Porch, Kitchen and Bar operating responsibilities are in the hands of three Governors who have most unselfishly given of their time and effort to make BLYC a bigger and better Yacht Club. They have demonstrated to themselves and to the other Board Members the ideal combination of participation and cooperation. Please lend them your support whenever needed.

The Ladies Auxiliary is sponsoring and arranging a card party with many interesting and entertaining surprises. Ladies, this is your party and your Auxiliary - it merits your support!

Sincerely yours,

Michael J. Hein

LADIES AUXILIARY

The Ladies Auxiliary Meeting was held May 14th at the Club with 24 members and 2 guests present. Lenny served a delightful luncheon. You gals who couldn't make it missed something. Many thanks to our hostess for the day, Marty Fisher. Centerpieces were won by Helen Chase, Catherine Sproat, Marlise Cruikshank, Georgiana Jones, Guests, Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Kinnell, Peg Beeson and yours truly.

Celebrating Birthdays this month were Velma Lieberman and Dee Reems and belatedly, Mary Jane Offenbergl.

Gladys Travis announced that plans for the card party, Wednesday, June 19th are well under way and again asked that you please get your stamp books or door prizes to her. She's planning a great day for us, so let's all try to be there. And please - get your tickets sold and money turned in. She has more if you need them! Gladys' correct phone number is 928-0359.

Our next regular Meeting will be held Friday, June 14th, at the Club.

Now is the time to begin thinking about the annual July 4th Boat Parade. Although more information will be forthcoming, there were many beautiful trophies given out last year and many of you will want to spend some time thinking about your boat decorations. Here is the schedule:

Assemble at Millersport at: 1:30
Parade starts at: 2:00
East to Journal Island to Northbank
East along Northbank past BLYC to
Hunt's and break up.
Winners will be posted at BLYC following the Parade.

This Chamber of Commerce sponsored parade has been a colorful event each year and is usually followed with the Lake being ringed with Flares at twilight and some nice fireworks on the islands. This is a great way to have a safe 4th of July.

GUN CLUB

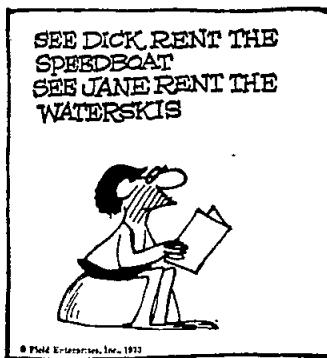

Ed Shinn, President

The BLYC Gun Club finished off the year with a fantastic steak dinner, ala Lennie, cooked on the Club's new broiler. All agreed that the food was great. Trophys were presented to the winners, as you can see on the picture page. In order, they are Bob Baughman, Fred Rosser, Wayne Kettner, Lou Cartwright....who needed his wife's help to get all his personal hardware to the car and Jim Sherrard.

New Officers of the Gun Club are Ed Shinn, President; Bob Wachtel, Vice President and Bill Koman, Secretary-Treasurer.

Competition is getting so keen at the top end of the shooting that there is talk about setting up a handicapping system next year. In any event, this has been a year of growth, both size and ability, for BLYC's Shooters. When the men who shot perfect 25s were listed, Don Clark's name was accidentally omitted. Don is another member who wears the coveted "25" patch on his jacket.

BLUE-GREEN ALGAE

One of the groups of algae found in impounded bodies of water are the blue-greens of the Phylum Cyanophyta. They differ from all other algae in that they lack an organized nucleus and have their pigments spread throughout the cell. Like all algae they contain the pigment chlorophyll, necessary for the biological process, photosynthesis, but their cells also contain the pigment phycocyanin which is blue in color.

For the most part, the many species of this group are microscopic and must be viewed with a microscope. They may be found as individual cells imbedded in a jelly matrix or as a filament of round cells connected together.

For those of us who obtain our drinking water from impounded water sources (lakes and reservoirs) we are sometimes very aware that the blue-greens are present. During the spring of the year, when the water starts to warm, these algae go on a reproductive rampage, which phycologists call a "bloom". In a short period of time (24 hours or so) they can multiply thousands of times and the water will look like thick green soup. The blue-greens produce oils which they release into the water and make it smell fishy and taste awful. These oils are toxic and in large concentrations have been fatal to animals drinking the water.

NOTEWORTHY

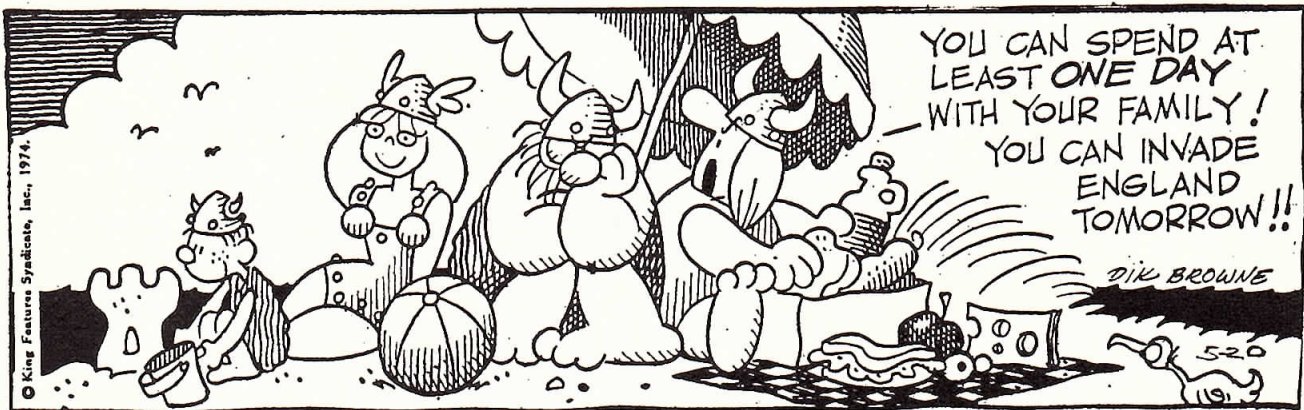

BLYC members never can tell where they will meet. This is a record of "Flo" and "Off The Wind" having met last July ('73) while on their separate courses up the St. Clair River enroute to Georgian Bay.

An impromptu rendezvous predictably called for cocktails and here is "Flo's" skipper, Tom Boswell and his crew "Bud" Ingalls aboard "Off The Wind" with Louesa and John Titus at "The Guildwood", a motel marina combination, North of Sarnia.

The self-timer was faster than John's Foot work as he tried to board, grab his cocktail from wife Lou and assume a casual pose similar to Tom's. (See photo page)
